

Amaroo from Jonty .

I loved visiting the Amaroo Environmental Centre because it had so many little areas which had all different activities. I really like the area where you could play and put your bags like in a little cave, and the languages rooms where you could see photos of Amaroo with a big picture of Amaroo that you could talk about and learn the languages of the Indigenous people of the area. You could go on bush walks that showed a tamed bushfire which is one that is under control and not causing any harm. It was there to clear the rubbish and not let it get out of control. On the bush walk there were holes where the animals buried their poop. Animals such as possums, wallabies and bandicoots showed how big their poops were. After that we went to the little play area. If you put two big rocks together it would make paint. Then we had some more food, then we made animals out of sticks and stuff. They provided a picture of the animal we were to produce. Mine was a kangaroo. Soon we sadly had to go home. It was an amazing day where we learnt so much about the indigenous history and customs of the area.

Aspects of Amaroo from some of our junior students

On Monday we went to Amaroo. We did lots of fun activities. My favourite part was when we pretended we were fishing.

I also liked when we were pulling the tents down because it was fun. Finally we got the pegs out and pulled it down. (Brooklyn S)

On Monday we went to Amaroo. We did lots of fun activities. My favourite was putting up the tents because it was very fun when I was hammering in the pegs.

I also liked going fishing because I got double fish and it was fun. (Aoife)

On Monday we went to Amaroo. We did lots of fun activities. My favourite part was putting up a tent. I liked putting the tent up because it was very fun hammering in the pegs with the mallet. I also liked the camping area and seeing Harriet having lots of injuries. (Henry)
